

Walmart Standard Return Policy

Returns are available for nearly everything Walmart sells. Your purchase history on Walmart.com displays the latest eligible date for a return or replacement. However, we recommend keeping track of all manufacturer packaging and your receipt for a minimum of 90 days after purchase.

Walmart's policy applies to returns of products purchased in Walmart U.S. stores, Walmart.com, Walmart Business, or from Marketplace sellers on Walmart.com.

Items purchased from dealers or resellers and not Walmart or Walmart.com directly aren't eligible for return, refund, or exchange.

Returning items purchased on Walmart.com

You have 90 days after purchase or upon receipt to return most items unless noted in our exceptions. Items sold and shipped by a Marketplace seller may be returned within 30 days. To ensure your item may be returned, review the exceptions on our Corporate Return Policy page.

In store purchases

You have 90 days after purchase or upon receipt to return most items unless noted in our exceptions. Most Consumer Electronics are returnable within 30 days. Wireless phones are returnable within 14 days. To ensure your in-store item may be returned, review the exceptions on our Corporate Return Policy page.

Extended holiday returns

Most items purchased in-store or online from October 1 through December 31 are returnable until January 31. Marketplace seller participation varies. See the Return Policy for details.

Damaged or defective items

If an item you received from Walmart.com is damaged or defective, your item may be eligible to be returned by mail or returned to any Walmart store and may qualify for a refund or replacement. Please start your return in the Walmart app or online by going to your Purchase History.

Walmart Financial Services

Express Bill Payments and fees associated with Walmart Financial Services products are non-refundable.

For more information about non-refundable financial services visit the Return Policy page.
